Since its founding in 1945, the firm has established a tradition of excellence in handling medical malpractice; professional negligence; product liability; birth trauma; and automobile, transportation, maritime, and business matters.

"OUR COMMITMENT TO HARD WORK AND PREPARATION, ALONG WITH OUR willingness to try cases, has allowed us to consistently achieve landmark recoveries for our clients," notes managing partner Paul D. Bekman, who has been AV Preeminent® rated by Martindale-Hubbell®, along with Stuart M. Salsbury, Daniel M. Clements, Laurence A. Marder, E. Dale Adkins III, Wendy L. Shiff, and Michael P. Smith.

NOW IN HIS FOURTH DECADE OF PRACTICE, BEKMAN IS ONE OF THE MOST RESPECTED trial attorneys in Maryland. He has achieved the highest personal injury verdicts in multiple Maryland counties and has been named as a Best Lawyers Lawyer of the Year in Baltimore for the past five consecutive years. Bekman is also a Fellow, former Regent, and current Secretary of the American College of Trial Lawyers (ACTL) and a past-President of the Maryland State Bar Association (MSBA), the Bar Association of Baltimore City (BABC), and the Maryland Association for Justice (MAJ).

SALSBUURY HAS PRACTICED TRIAL LAW FOR MORE THAN 30 YEARS AND IS KNOWN FOR obtaining justice for his clients. His achievements include securing one of the highest recoveries in Maryland for a brain-injured child and successfully representing the families of individuals who died because of the water taxi disaster in Baltimore Harbor. In addition to being a Fellow of the ACTL, he is a past-President of the MAJ and a past-Governor of the American Association for Justice.

CLEMENTS IS A FORMER ASSISTANT U.S. ATTORNEY WHO HAS DEMONSTRATED HIS pre-eminence as a trial lawyer in more than 130 jury trials. MARDER HAS BUILT A SUCCESSFUL RECORD FOR HIS CLIENTS OVER MORE THAN TWO decades as a partner at SCBMA. Indeed, his insistence on thorough analysis and trial preparation resulted in a $7.7 million jury verdict in a medical malpractice case early in his career. Marder frequently lectures on topics related to his field and also serves on the boards of the Beth Tfiloh Community School and the Suburban Orthodox Congregation.

AFTER DECADES OF DEFENDING DOCTORS AND HOSPITALS IN MEDICAL MALPRACTICE cases, Adkins now uses his knowledge about insurance companies to help injured plaintiffs. He has since obtained many multimillion-dollar jury verdicts, including a $17.4 million award in the District of Columbia. In 2010, he was named Best Lawyers® Lawyer of the Year in Baltimore for personal injury litigation. He is also a Fellow of the ACTL.

THOMAS J. ZAGAMI

COMMERCIAL LITIGATION, BUSINESS SERVICES, GOVERNMENT PERMITS

Tom Zagami continues his long streak of being rated AV Preeminent®—the highest rating that can be bestowed upon a lawyer for legal ability and adherence to ethical standards. He is very appreciative of the continued recognition.

For 22 years, Mr. Zagami has been representing clients in commercial litigation and business services, including matters pertaining to the issuance of government permits. A representative list of his cases is on his firm's website at www.ZagamiLawOffice.com. He is licensed and practices regularly in Maryland, Pennsylvania and Washington, D.C.

A graduate of The George Washington University Law School, Mr. Zagami has received recognition throughout his career for his skill as both a trial lawyer and a business lawyer. In addition to being rated AV Preeminent®, for example, he was selected previously in The Daily Record as one of the top 20 preferred business lawyers in Maryland. And in 2010, a jury verdict he won on behalf of a company was ranked by VerdictSearch as the top civil rights trial verdict in Pennsylvania that year.

Because of his proven aptitude in both litigation and business, Mr. Zagami is frequently hired to navigate companies and individuals through the intricacies of overlapping legal and business issues. "Most clients do not have time to focus on the day-to-day nuances of legal problems," explains Mr. Zagami, "so I am often hired to develop, implement and manage a comprehensive strategy to deal with those problems so they can concentrate on other aspects of their business and life."

Mr. Zagami's clients see it as an advantage that he is adept at understanding both litigation and business. He believes it enables him to make more reasoned judgments about whether to use litigation, business strategies or a combination of both to advance his clients' goals – and his approach has been successful for them. "The key," says Mr. Zagami, "is ensuring that you have a clear understanding of your client's goals at all times."

FROMMER LAWRENCE & HAUG LLP

INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY, COMMERCIAL LITIGATION, BUSINESS & COMMERCIAL

As a dedicated intellectual property firm, Frommer Lawrence & Haug LLP ("FLH") offers clients seamless, superior representation that draws on the expertise of its more than 80 attorneys and scientific advisors.

FLH excels at both preparing and trying high-stakes IP cases, as well as counseling clients in areas such as product life cycle management, due diligence, FDA/regulatory, FTC review, antitrust, and licensing.

"What differentiates us is our ability to integrate practice areas," says founding and managing partner Ed Haug. "We can put everyone in one room with the client and provide comprehensive legal service that covers the whole life cycle of a patent."

The firm also has one of the nation's leading practices covering the Drug Price Competition and Patent Term Restoration Act, or "Hatch-Waxman."

"The loss of patent protection can reduce a company's bottom line by billions," notes partner Sandra Kuzmich, who leads FLH's Life Sciences practice. "But our collaborative culture has helped in mastering Hatch-Waxman's intricacies."

The firm's legal group includes 11 attorneys who are AV Preeminent® rated by Martindale-Hubbell® – a peer recognition that places them at the highest level of professional excellence. Many attorneys also have more than 30 years of experience in IP law, as well as advanced degrees in science and engineering. In addition, the firm has on-staff scientific advisors to assist in preparing patent applications and to provide counsel on regulatory issues and ongoing complex litigations.

"At FLH we have the right mix of scientific background, expertise, and litigation experience in patent law," says partner Porter Fleming, who heads FLH's Trial Advocacy Group. "From the bench chemist, to in-house counsel, to the CEO, we speak their language."

JANET, JENNER & SUGGS, LLC

EXTRAORDINARY CASES ARE TYPICAL AT JANET, JENNER & SUGGS

A day at Janet, Jenner & Suggs might find managing partner Howard Janet fielding press inquiries about his latest high-profile case, partner Ken Suggs going head-to-head with a top medical defense team, or partner Robert Jenner coordinating thousands of cases as a leader in multi-district litigation.

The Baltimore-based plaintiffs firm has risen steadily to become one of the most powerful legal voices in the country speaking for injured patients, consumers and children. In its most recent rankings of law firms, U.S. News & World Report elevated JJ&S from "Tier One" status in the Baltimore Metropolitan area to "Tier One" status nationally in mass torts, class actions, medical malpractice, personal injury and product liability litigation.

KEY CASES: WHISTLEBLOWER, PENN STATE & PRADAXA

In the last year, JJ&S has played a major role in some of the country's most closely watched cases.

Howard Janet and Ken Suggs served among the lead attorneys in a whistleblower case on behalf of a woman whose exposure of massive mortgage foreclosure fraud helped bring about a national settlement against some of the country's largest banks. In his announcement of the settlement, President Obama singled out evidence developed in the case initiated by Janet and Suggs. The fraud revealed by their client's whistleblower case benefited not only the federal government, but also state governments, and consumers who had been victimized.

"It's a special year when you've been an integral part of helping to ease the financial burden of struggling families from coast-to-coast," said Janet.

Janet also represents Victim Six in the Penn State/Sandusky child sexual abuse litigation. His analysis of the scandal was and continues to be sought by national TV networks, Anderson Cooper 360°, Piers Morgan Tonight and ESPN, among others.

Courts have acknowledged Jenner's successes in defective medical product and device cases by appointing him to leadership positions in national mass torts litigation. Currently, he is leading the battle with colleagues on behalf of people injured by the anti-coagulant, Pradaxa®. He is also co-lead counsel in mass tort litigation over injuries caused by "toning shoes." The litigation he and his co-counsel initiated resulted in dangerous shoes being pulled off the market.

"Through the power of collective voices, we can make a difference on a large scale," said Jenner.

MED MAL TO ENVIRONMENTAL: TOP RATED ATTORNEYS

The firm also is recognized in environmental and consumer and business fraud cases. Eight of the firm's attorneys hold the highest Martindale-Hubbell rating: Janet, Jenner, Suggs, Stephen Offutt, Dov Apfel, John C. Hensley Jr., Gerald Jowers and Thomas Wilson.

TYPICAL DAY INCLUDES SERVICE

The end of the day at JJ&S might find Janet, and partner, Giles Manley, M.D., J.D., putting the finishing touches on their book, "Patients' Rights and Doctors' Wrongs: Secrets to a Safer Pregnancy and Childbirth." It might find Jenner sharing consumer safety tips through his blog, or Suggs reviewing grant awards for the firm's adopted non-profit, the "Cerebral Palsy Family Network."

It's obvious from the cases they attract, the successes they achieve and their efforts to prevent injuries, that a typical day for attorneys at Janet, Jenner & Suggs is anything but typical.

ABRAMS LANDAU, LTD.

WORKERS' COMPENSATION, PERSONAL INJURY, SOCIAL SECURITY DISABILITY

COME SEE US IN ACTION," DOUG LANDAU TELLS clients and their families, so that they can be prepared for what happens in real courtrooms, as opposed to television studios. "We 'walk the walk,' not just 'talk the talk,' which is important for a real trial firm." The Herndon, Va., law firm has an open book policy so that clients will be prepared for their day in court. "It's important that our clients feel at home with us," Landau says. "That is why we bought the buildings near Dulles Airport that have the look of a grandma's house. We try to reduce our injured and disabled clients' stress and uncertainty by providing them with the tools and guidance that will enable them to pay for the harms and losses caused by the unsafe decisions of others. That's why we created a unique firm that emphasizes caring and accessibility."

BY HELPING PEOPLE WITH PERSONAL INJURY, STATE workers' compensation, and federal Social Security disability, Landau and his experienced team can represent injured victims in several cases arising from the same accident, disability, or occupational disease. He is also admitted to practice in five states (VA, DC, FL, CT, and NJ), federal courts, and the U.S. Supreme Court. Landau notes: "If someone is permanently disabled as the result of an on-the-job accident on the East Coast, due to someone else's unsafe actions, we can help them efficiently and economically in all three cases."

"THE MOST REWARDING PART OF THESE CASES IS THE hugs from clients and their families and knowing that they'll be better off than when they first came to me for help," Landau says. "Many of our cases are referrals from present and past clients, doctors, and other lawyers, because people hear about us through our work."

ABRAMS LANDAU HAS A HISTORY OF PROMOTING SAFETY in the community. Landau gives brain injury prevention presentations at local schools. He also teaches for non-profit groups, the Virginia Trial Lawyers, and the Association of Trial Lawyers of America (now the American Association for Justice), and he helps the Virginia Supreme Court with its new judges' training program. This year the Abrams Landau law firm hopes to give 365 helmets to local children who cannot afford them, so they do not end up disabled from permanent head injuries. Landau adds, "We hope to put 'Lids on the Kids' to prevent needless injury in our DC metropolitan community."

THEY STAND BEHIND VICTIMS AND THEIR FAMILIES TO TRANSFORM COMMUNITIES

This Personal Injury Firm Gives Victims a Fighting Chance

The law firm of Chaikin, Sherman, Cammarata & Siegel, P.C., has earned a reputation as a staunch and successful advocate for victims of personal injury and wrongful deaths throughout Washington, D.C., Maryland and Virginia.

Over the last forty years the lawyers at the firm have represented more than 10,000 clients. Those clients have included victims of automobile, bus, tractor-trailer, and train accidents; slip-and-falls; medical malpractice; and police brutality. The firm takes pride in achieving justice for its clients whether the consequences resulted in death, a profound or permanent brain injury, or a neck or back strain. The firm only charges a fee once they obtain compensation for their client.

“We are able to help any person who, through no fault of his own, has had to suffer the consequences of another person’s carelessness,” says senior partner Ira Sherman.

Sherman and his fellow attorneys have won hundreds of millions of dollars for their clients, but he says their primary focus is helping clients find a voice—and justice. “No amount of money can compensate somebody for the physical and emotional pain caused by an injury or death of a loved one,” Sherman says. “What clients can take with them is the feeling that the justice system works, and the wrongdoers, who are often backed by powerful insurance companies, were held accountable for their actions.”

Partner Joseph Cammarata says that serving their clients’ personal injury cases can have a positive effect on the entire community. And that is a reward in itself.

Cammarata recalls a case he and Sherman took in 1999, representing the families of 15 people who had died in the District of Columbia’s group home system due to staff negligence and abuse. Beyond financial compensation for the families, the law firm insisted that Washington, D.C., officials create a plaque dedicated to the victims of the group home system, which has been placed outside the Director of Human Services’ office. “Now, when the administrators go to their offices at that agency, they are reminded of the consequences of failing to fulfill their duty to the community they are required to protect,” says Cammarata.

The law firm has also been repeatedly recognized for the outstanding quality of the legal services provided to their clients. All three of the active partners were included in the Washington, D.C., Super Lawyers® publication in 2011 and 2012. Cammarata and Siegel have consistently been named by Washingtonian Magazine as “Top Lawyers” in the D.C. metropolitan area, and Sherman and Siegel are both past presidents of the Trial Lawyers Association of Metropolitan Washington, D.C.

In addition, Cammarata and Sherman are the co-founders and President and Vice President, respectively, of the Brain Injury Association of the District of Columbia, a non-profit organization devoted to providing a resource for people who have suffered traumatic brain injuries.

All of the attorneys of Chaikin, Sherman, Cammarata & Siegel agree that at the heart of their practice lies the motivation they share: making a difference in their clients’ lives. “We form bonds with our clients and their families that last for generations,” says Siegel.

Those bonds come quickly to mind, when Sherman recalls a case he took some 30 years ago. A woman was riding home from work with her colleague, when the colleague’s ex-boyfriend drove them off the road in his car. He then fired a gun into their car, killing the driver and paralyzing the woman. Sherman represented the woman and received a verdict of $15 million. To this day, he remains close with her and her family.

“Individuals fighting alone are not likely to have the resources to combat corporate or insurance interests,” Sherman explains. “Our goal is to even the scales so that individuals are represented with the same vigor and aggressiveness as any corporation or insurance company.”

“WHAT CLIENTS CAN TAKE WITH THEM IS THE FEELING THAT THE JUSTICE SYSTEM WORKS, AND THE WRONGDOERS, WHO ARE OFTEN BACKED BY POWERFUL INSURANCE COMPANIES, WERE HELD ACCOUNTABLE FOR THEIR ACTIONS.”

FIGHTING FOR VICTIMS OF MEDICAL MISTAKES

This Malpractice Firm Helps Heal the Wounds of Patients and Their Families

Tragically, medical malpractice occurs every day in the lives of Americans. The Institute Of Medicine, a group of doctors and not lawyers, has concluded that 98,000 Americans die every year in our hospitals due to medical malpractice. That is more than 268 people dying every single day. This is an alarming number that does not include patients who do not die but are severely injured and disabled at the hands of negligent medicine in American hospitals, and as outpatients in doctors' offices. "Modern medicine may be highly complex, but there are avoidable errors that result in disastrous circumstances and horrible injuries that destroy lives," says attorney Kerry D. Staton, a founding partner of the firm.

The lawyers at Schochor, Federico and Staton, P.A. have dedicated their entire professional lives, every day, to representing those who have been injured due to negligent medical care. They provide the highest level of representation to their clients, without regard to economic or social standing. They take on the defendant health-care providers and their insurance companies, regardless of cost, and obtain the best results possible. The compensation that they obtain helps to rebuild lives, restores and raises the quality of lives and provides the finest medical and other care necessary for their clients. "We provide injured patients with keys to the courthouse which they would otherwise never have," says Jonathan Schochor, a founding and managing partner of the firm. "Imagine this group of patients who put their trust in health-care providers only to have a catastrophic outcome. Who do they turn to? They place their trust in us, and we deliver."

Since its inception 28 years ago, Schochor, Federico and Staton has obtained more than $700 million for its clients who have been injured and damaged due to medical malpractice. By doing so, the firm effectively holds hospitals and health-care providers accountable and responsible for their negligence. "We act as enforcers to effectively monitor the conduct of physicians, surgeons, nurses, hospitals, and other health-care providers and through our legal actions, compel them to comply with the standards of care, or face legal responsibility for their failure to do so," says Philip C. Federico, a founding partner of the firm. The firm employs a full-time team of medical investigators. They also enjoy access to approximately 500 medical experts—including professors of medicine and surgery who teach the standards of care across the country. That expertise helps the firm tackle challenging cases that others would not.

For example, Schochor, Federico and Staton is a leading firm in a class action involving a pediatrician who sexually abused more than 800 infants and children over a 15-year period of time. Through the class action, the firm has been instrumental in the effort to obtain very substantial funds needed for ongoing psychiatric and psychological therapy for these victims, which provide a meaningful opportunity for recovery and fruitful lives.

Schochor, Federico and Staton strives for and achieves continuing excellence. The firm has been recognized by U.S. News & World Report—Best Law Firms; Newsweek—Top Law Firms in Maryland; Best Lawyers In America; Maryland Super Lawyers; Martindale-Hubbell Law Directory's highest rating possible (AV®); and Bar Register for Preeminent Lawyers—all confirming the highest achievement and recognition on a regional and national basis. The attorneys at Schochor, Federico and Staton look forward to serving you, should the need arise.

LARGE-FIRM PRACTICE IN A SMALL-FIRM SETTING

At Rifkin, Livingston, Levitan & Silver, LLC, the litigation group brings a multifaceted approach to its clients' interests

Established in 1989, the litigation group at Rifkin, Livingston, Levitan & Silver, LLC, with offices throughout Maryland, has become a go-to firm for national and international clients, despite—and some say because of—its small-firm, hands-on practice.

“That we represent some of the largest companies in the world and private litigants on both sides of the trial table is directly attributable to the abilities and dedication of the litigators that we’ve been fortunate enough to attract to the firm and the close-knit nature of the litigation group,” notes managing partner Alan Rifkin, who co-chairs the division. “We’ve built a large-firm litigation practice with a collaborative small-firm group dynamic.”

That success has not gone unnoticed. The firm has handled a number of prominent and well-publicized cases, including successfully representing the widow of a postal worker who died after exposure to anthrax letters mailed to the United States Congress in 2001. The Rifkin firm is also leading a national class action against dishwasher manufacturers for alleged defects that have reportedly caused large-scale fires and personal injury, as well as a worldwide class action against Hungary and the Hungarian railway for World War II crimes against humanity.

On the other side of the trial table, the Rifkin firm has defended some of the nation’s largest companies, including software manufacturers, commercial developers, and gaming and sports franchises.

Rifkin attributes the firm’s success to its emphasis on teamwork and detailed preparation, as well as the dedication of his colleagues. “Unlike some traditional law firms, here the entire litigation group is involved in every case. There are all kinds of solutions in a contested case—including business resolutions—and we try to explore all of them,” he says.

M. Celeste Bruce, who co-chairs the litigation division, adds: “We relish the opportunity to take on complex cases. Nothing is rote. We have a saying here—one of these days we’re going to do the same thing twice, but this is not that day.”

Indeed, Charles Fax notes that when he first joined the firm, its depth of commitment to handling cases as a group came as a surprise: “I knew that the firm had a national clientele and a well-deserved reputation for successfully handling complex matters. What I didn’t realize was the level of teamwork and preparation applied to every case.”

Alan Sternstein, who served as law clerk to Justice William J. Brennan, concurs, noting the uniformly high degree of professionalism, sophistication, and creative thought at the firm.

That creativity was on display in one of the firm’s most recognizable cases: Representing the Baltimore Orioles and the Mid-Atlantic Sports Network against Major League Baseball over the relocation of the Montreal Expos to

Washington, D.C., Rifkin negotiated a unique commercial settlement combining the television rights of the two clubs into a single sports network.

Arnold Weiner, a well-recognized attorney in his own right, was Rifkin’s co-counsel on that case, and he describes the commercial resolution as an extraordinary achievement. “The settlement was not only creative, but it provided the Orioles with long-term stability,” he says. “Not many lawyers could have seen the big picture and put that together.”

Rifkin notes: “There are many pathways to success. Litigation is just one of them. While we’re always prepared to litigate, we don’t lose sight of the fact that there could be a commercial resolution that is or may be more favorable to our clients.”

Many members of the firm have also been published nationally. Among others, Michael Berman recently co-authored Managing E-Discovery and ESI – From Pre-Litigation Through Trial, published by the ABA, and counsels businesses on preparing for and responding to e-discovery requests. Fax co-authored a book that was also published by the ABA on general discovery principles and serves on the editorial board of the ABA’s Litigation News. Another partner, Scott Livingston, is the author of various law review articles on procurement and contracting matters, while Joyce Smithey, who handles employment and labor cases, has also been published.

As Rifkin says, “We’ve assembled a talented group of lawyers who bring years of commercial and litigation experience to the table and operate in a team setting. In our view, the historic litigation practice model is shifting to the kind of hands-on, small-group practice that defines us.”

While the division’s success is a credit to all of its members, Weiner praises Rifkin’s leadership: “Alan practices law like a professional chess player—he’s cognizant of the moves way down into the game, blending the natural instincts of a litigator with the talents of a very sophisticated business lawyer.”

HARD WORK AND PREPARATION MAKE SUCCESS A ROUTINE

For four decades, Paul Bekman has fought for the victims of catastrophic events—and won

After four decades of trying cases all over Maryland, Paul D. Bekman has attained some of the largest verdicts in the state for victims of catastrophic events. But his success is no accident. “The harder you work, the luckier you get,” Bekman says. “If you prepare completely and outwork your opponents, your likelihood of success grows considerably.”

Bekman has tried more than 100 jury cases as a managing partner of Baltimore-based Salsbury, Clements, Bekman, Marder and Adkins, L.L.C. He thinks of every case as an intricate puzzle, and he painstakingly analyzes the legal merits of each. His care and work ethic has earned him a reputation for taking on difficult cases—and winning. Bekman has won the highest verdicts ever seen in many of Maryland’s 24 counties.

He is particularly proud of his work on behalf of clients who have faced serious traumatic loss or injury. One of Bekman’s most challenging cases came in 2009 and involved a woman who faced complications during pregnancy that left her child with severe brain damage. After arriving at the emergency room complaining of severe abdominal pain, she waited three hours before a physician examined her.

Bekman argued that the medical staff had been negligent in their treatment of the woman’s condition and failed to follow their very own protocol. It ordered special care for all women who were more than 20 weeks pregnant. “Before this case, there had never been a million-dollar verdict in Frederick,” he says. “In this case, we attained a verdict of $4 million for the family.”

Bekman has helped hold companies responsible for their own safety practices, too. In a 2011 case involving a 2005 stabbing at a Nordstrom’s in Bethesda, a mentally unstable woman wielding several butcher knives attacked two shoppers before surrendering to an off-duty FBI agent. Bekman represented the stabbing victims, and he convinced the jury that the department store’s employees had not done enough to warn shoppers to evacuate the store. “Nordstrom’s didn’t follow its own safety practices and procedures,” Bekman says. “The victims had originally been offered a settlement of $77,000, but they were awarded $1.25 million in the verdict.”

Bekman’s work goes beyond large trial sums to clarify existing laws. In a 2008 case, he helped establish a precedent after a woman was injured in an elevator at Baltimore’s Johns Hopkins Hospital. Bekman argued that the hospital, as the owner of the elevator, owed their passengers the highest degree of care and diligence based on a 60-year-old case involving an elevator attendant.

Even though elevators no longer used attendants, the hospital still had a duty to ensure safety in their passenger-operated elevators. The jury sided with Bekman and awarded the plaintiff $300,000. The ruling was upheld twice upon subsequent appeals, altering the previous interpretation of the law.

These and other judgments have cemented Bekman’s reputation as one of the most dogged trial lawyers in Baltimore. He has been selected for inclusion in The Best Lawyers in America every year since 1989, and has served as the president of the Maryland State Bar Association, the Maryland Trial Lawyers Association, and the Bar Association of Baltimore City. This year, he will be receiving the “Baltimore Lawyer of the Year” award in the category of Products Liability, after winning the distinction for Mediation and Arbitration in 2012, Medical Malpractice Law in 2011 and 2010, and Personal Injury in 2009.

Securing verdicts with the highest possible monetary awards for his clients is part of his job, but Bekman says it’s as much about doing the right thing. “Even if there is not a great deal of money involved, it’s the principle that’s important,” he says. “During my entire professional career, I have been representing people who have been the victims of catastrophic events. That’s what I undertook to do, and that’s what my practice does.”

“THE HARDER YOU
LUCKIER YOU
OPPONENTS, YOUR
LIKELIHOOD OF SUCCESS
GROWS CONSIDERABLY.”

Banking & Finance, Real Estate Law, Business & Commercial

Nothing's easy any more!" We hear that often from our clients and they are correct. It sometimes seems that the road to success is more potholes than asphalt. We view our mission as identifying the potholes and guiding you around them. This is true whether you are an individual or a multimillion-dollar business. We have been in business a long time and we know what we are doing. We have navigated around most of the potholes that you will encounter. In some cases we will advise you not to go down the road at all.

We work closely with our clients to bring effective resolutions to any problems that are encountered. We view litigation as a last resort and have many years of experience in successfully resolving disputes. We do, however, know how to litigate. You've heard it before but it's true: there really is no substitute for experience. A law degree and passage of the bar exam allows you to practice law. Only experience allows you to practice law at the highest level.

We have many years experience in business and corporate law, banking and finance, real estate, contract law and commercial litigation. Let us assist you on the road to success.

Many of the firm's lawyers are recognized by their peers as being in the top rankings of trial and appellate lawyers – regionally, nationally and internationally.

BENJAMIN TRICHILO

WORKERS' COMPENSATION LAW

After graduating from Georgetown University School of Business (1971), and from the University of Virginia School of Law (1974), Benjamin Trichilo served as law clerk to the Honorable Richard H. Poff of the Supreme Court of Virginia. His trial and appellate experience encompasses more than 36 years and includes personal injury, workers' compensation, and civil litigation. He is a frequent seminar speaker and continues more than 19 years of service as a mediator for the Fairfax County Circuit Court. Honors include Washington D.C. Area's Best Lawyers, The Best Lawyers in America, Virginia Super Lawyers, and fellowship in Litigation Counsel of America. For more than 20 years, Martindale-Hubbell has conferred its highest AV® rating. "I have represented numerous individuals and businesses, and have litigated precedent-setting cases. But every case is important to the client, and the merits of the case are more important than its size. Our firm has the expertise and support staff to handle the large and complex legal problems, as well as the smaller ones. Successful case handling requires the ability to solve problems: through negotiation where possible, and through litigation when necessary. But there is one simple, guiding principle: Handle each case as if it were your own."

ANDREW M. DANSICKER, ESQ.

LABOR & EMPLOYMENT, ADMINISTRATIVE, DISCRIMINATION

Our jobs frequently define who we are and provide us with a sense of self-worth. Perhaps that is why being unfairly fired, or being discriminated against or harassed leads to anger, frustration and depression. If you have been subjected to discrimination or sexual harassment, not been allowed to take family or medical leave or been fired because you took leave, not paid wages, overtime or commissions you earned, if your employment contract is being breached, if you are not being provided with reasonable disability accommodations, then you need an aggressive, intelligent, effective attorney who will fight for your rights and be responsive to your needs. That is the fundamental goal and promise of the Law Office of Andrew M. Dansicker, LLC.
